NOTES

- Both metric and imperial measures are given for the recipes. Follow either set of measures, not a mixture of both, as they are not interchangeable.
- All spoon measures are level.
1 tsp = 5ml spoon; 1 tbsp = 15ml spoon.
- Ovens and grills must be preheated to the specified temperature.
- Use sea salt and freshly ground black pepper unless otherwise suggested.
- Fresh herbs should be used unless dried herbs are specified in a recipe.
- Medium eggs should be used except where otherwise specified. Free-range eggs are recommended.
- Note that some recipes contain raw or lightly cooked eggs. The young, elderly, pregnant women and anyone with an immune-deficiency disease should avoid these because of the slight risk of salmonella.

- 1 Sea trout: all year; best March–July
The flesh has a flavour and colour rather like salmon, but the texture is coarser and less succulent. Prepare and cook as for salmon.
- 2 Herring: May–Dec
A fairly small, round fish with creamy-coloured flesh that has a distinctive flavour. Usually grilled, fried or stuffed and baked. Cured herrings are also available.
- 3 Eel: all year; best Sept–Dec
Dense, fatty flesh. Eels must be eaten very fresh and are therefore often sold live. They are also sold as fillets, and jellied. Fresh eels are best sautéed or stewed.
- 4 Sardine: Nov–Feb
These are immature pilchards. Most are sold canned in olive oil or tomato sauce, but fresh are increasingly available. Grill, fry or bake.
- 5 Whitebait: all year, best Feb–June
Tiny silvery young of the sprat or herring, whitebait are eaten whole, typically coated in flour and deep-fried.
- 6 Salmon: all year
The deep pink flesh turns pale pink when cooked. Fresh 'wild' Scottish salmon is the best; in season from February to August. Farmed and imported salmon are always available. Sold whole, and as steaks and fillets. Bake or poach whole salmon; grill, pan-fry, poach or bake steaks and cutlets.
- 7 Sprat: Oct; March
Small member of the herring family. Clean through the gills, then grill or fry.
- 8 Anchovy: all year
Small fish with a strong flavour; usually filleted and cured, by salting or brining. Fresh anchovies are sometimes obtainable.
- 9 Tuna: all year; fresh or frozen
The meaty flesh is deep reddish-pink and is sold in steaks or slices. Braise, poach, grill or pan-fry. Canned tuna is popular.
- 10 Mackerel: all year, best May–June
In plentiful supply and inexpensive. The average mackerel weighs about 450g (1lb). Its beige-pink flesh has a meaty texture and rich flavour. Whole fish and fillets can be grilled, baked, pan-fried or braised.

SEA BASS WITH SAFFRON AND ORANGE SAUCE

Serves 6

Preparation 25 minutes

Cooking time 40 minutes

75g (3oz) butter, plus extra to grease

1 large sea bass, about 1.4kg (3lb)

a handful of mixed fresh herb sprigs, such as tarragon, parsley and chervil, plus chopped herbs to garnish

salt and ground black pepper

orange wedges to garnish

For the saffron and orange sauce

½ tsp saffron

1 tsp cornflour

300ml (½ pint) double cream

finely grated zest of 1 orange

- 1 Preheat the oven to 220°C (200°C fan oven) mark 7. Line a roasting tin large enough to hold the fish with a lightly buttered sheet of foil. Rub the fish inside and out with salt and pepper and put in the foil-lined tin. Tuck the herbs into the cavity and dot the butter over the fish.
- 2 Cover the sea bass with foil and bake for 40 minutes or until the thickest part flakes easily when tested with a knife.
- 3 Meanwhile make the sauce. Crumble the saffron into a bowl, add 2 tbsp hot water and set aside. Blend the cornflour with a little cold water in a small pan, then stir in the cream, orange zest and a little seasoning. Add the saffron and liquid to the pan and cook, stirring, until slightly thickened. Simmer gently for 3 minutes.
- 4 Carefully lift the cooked sea bass on to a board and peel away the skin from the upper surface, then turn the bass on to a warmed serving serving plate. Remove the skin from the other side. Garnish the fish lavishly with herbs and with the orange wedges, and serve with the warm saffron and orange sauce.

TRY SOMETHING DIFFERENT

Use a sea trout instead of bass.

COOK'S TIP

If the bass won't fit comfortably in the tin, cut off the head and bake it beside the fish. Reposition the head as you serve the fish.
